

Who Eats What?

Raven will eat anything including your lunch!
Photo credit: Rosemary Taylor, B.C.

Northern Harrier is a meat eater. Here he has a mouse.
Photo credit: K Schneider, CC

Douglas Squirrel enjoys a favourite snack - a truffle! Lucky squirrel! Humans love truffles too.
Photo credit: Robert Alexander, B.C.

Banana slug nibbles on a mushroom.
Photo credit: credit Rosemary Taylor

River Otter crunches down a crab.
Photo credit: Robert Alexander, B.C.

Mother Black Bear munches on mountain blueberries - her cub is right behind her, hiding in the bushes.
Photo credit: Rosemary Taylor, B.C.

Robin brings home a tasty squishy bug for his nestling.
Photo credit: Rosemary Taylor, B.C.

This Yellowthroat enjoys a dragonfly - quite a large catch for a small songbird!
Photo credit: Gordon Gore, B.C.

All bears enjoy salmon.
Photo credit: Dave Hollis, B.C.

Carnivorous sundew with fly.
Photo credit: Todd Canahan, B.C.

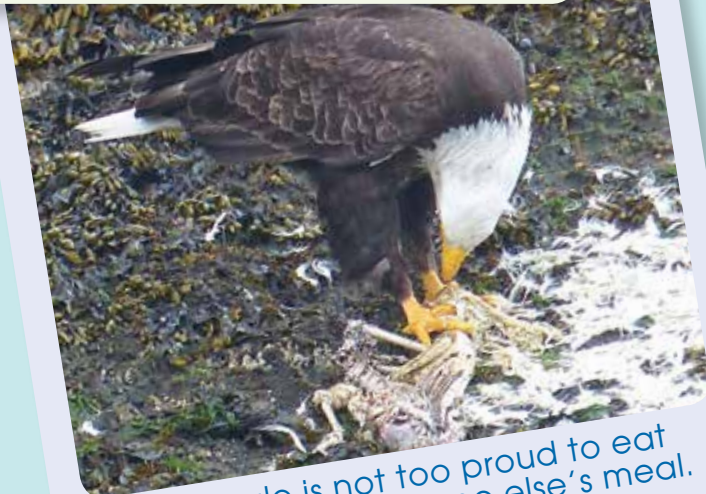

Female Rufous Hummingbird sips nectar from honeysuckle.
Photo credit: Robert Alexander, B.C.

Ants drag a dead bumblebee back to their nest to feed their colony.
Photo credit: Nick Baccante, B.C.

Snowshoe hare enjoys nibbling on grass.
Photo credit: Gordon Gore, B.C.

Bald Eagle is not too proud to eat left-overs from someone else's meal.
Photo credit: Rosemary Taylor, B.C.

Coyote is a hunter - his dinner today looks like a ground squirrel.
Photo credit: Maggie.Smith, CC